Choosing the Right Colour

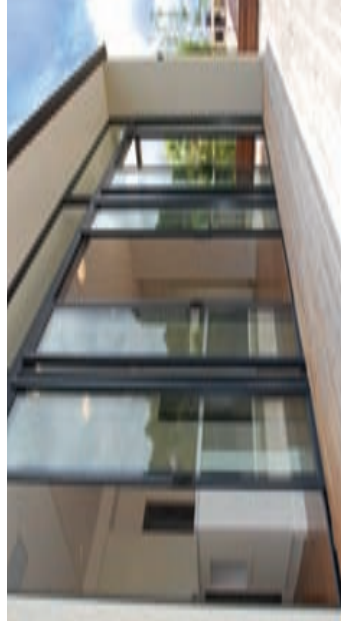

Choosing the colour for your windows and doors should be an easy process but given the multitude of colours available deciding on the right one can be a bit daunting. This colour chart is designed to assist you in choosing the right colour.

Using both Lidco's vast industry knowledge and the tastes of contemporary designers, this chart highlights those colours that are more suitable for aluminium windows and doors.

Some tips for colour choice:

- Lighter shades and matt finishes are more suitable for Australian climatic conditions
- Choose a colour that contrasts with the colour of the roof, a tone that is either darker or lighter than the roof
- Standard colours are usually neutral tones, enabling easy colour matching with your choice of door furniture
- The Colorbond® colours are selected when matching Colorbond® finished steel products
- The pearlescent colours provide a sense of opulence and special beauty

Colorbond® and colour names are registered trademarks of BlueScope Steel Limited.

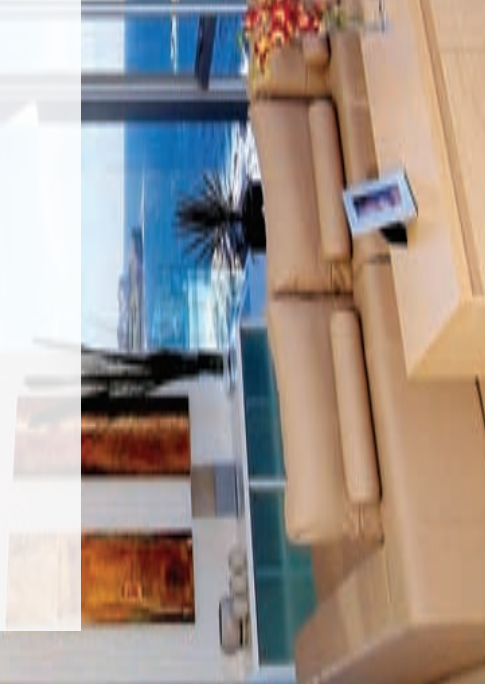

Warranties

Long life and ease of maintenance are some of the many advantages of choosing Lidco aluminium for your windows and doors. The powder coatings supplied by the market leaders Interpon and Dulux are backed by their respective warranties.

We recommend higher durability powders if enhanced performance or extended warranties are required. Please consult your local Lidco fabricator for more details.

Qualicoat Standards

All Lidco supplied powder coated windows and doors comply with Australian Standard AS3715 and the application process is independently audited by Qualicoat, the international powder coating licensing authority.
